

HE WORE SHERIFF'S BADGE.

But Henry Mack Pleading Guilty of Shoplifting.

Mrs. Scott, His Companion, Looked Like a Sunday-School Teacher.

Henry Mack, thirty-five years old, who said he lived at 35 Varick street, New York, and Mrs. Mary Scott, fifty-three years of age, who said she lived "aboard a boat," were sent to jail for fifty days by Justice Tilden in the Butler street court, Brooklyn, this morning, for shoplifting.

They first pleaded not guilty, but afterwards changed their minds and put in a plea of guilty.

Both prisoners were well dressed. Mrs. Scott would pass for a motherly Sunday-school teacher.

Mack is over 6 feet tall and has a dignified bearing.

Detective Forke saw the couple carrying a sack on Atlantic avenue, near Court street, last evening, and watched them go into the store of Morris Cohen, at 185 Smith street.

Mack tried to run to the front door to see how they fared, while Mrs. Scott remained behind.

The couple left without making a purchase, however, and Forke, who was suspicious, followed them down the street and arrested them.

On taking them back to Cohen's store, Mrs. Scott's satchel was found to contain a pair of patent-leather gaiters, while Mack's satchel was filled with new soap.

When searched at the Third Precinct Station-house, $35 was found in the possession of Mack, who said it was a New York deputy sheriff's badge of 1883.

DID GERTIE CUT HER OWN BRAID?

Police Inclined to Believe "Jack the Hair-Cutter" a Myth.

The police of the Clymer street station, Williamsburg, assert with more or less positiveness that Gertie McBride cut off her own braid of hair.

Once Holland, who has investigated the case, says that he is convinced from the state of the hair left on the head that the braid was carefully hacked off with a pair of scissors.

And Gertie's story that it was cut off with one blow is a myth.

Despite this, Gertie did not flatter under the detective's examination, and told him the same as she had told her mother, who has charge of Gertie's case, says she is inclined to believe the little girl, because she has always found her to be very truthful.

Gottfried Rohrer and His Crutches Not Wanted at Home.

The complainant was the woman's husband, Gottfried. He came into court on crutches this morning, and told a story of how he had been injured.

Justice Gottling, however, said that he was not inclined to believe the story, and that he was not inclined to believe the story.

He told his wife that he intended to call upon a friend living in New York. It has been learned that he did not go there, but visited Louis Pollock, of 547 East One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street, New York.

The men separated, and Solowick is described as thirty years old, 5 feet 3 inches in height, dark complexion, and mustache, and wore dark clothing.

She is described as thirty-five years old, 5 feet 11 inches in height, with full brown hair. He wore dark clothing.

ANOTHER WRECK VICTIM.

Andrew Bartholomew Died in the Hospital This Morning.

Austin Corbin May Be Indicted for the Parkville Horror.

Andrew J. Bartholomew, one of the victims injured in the Manhattan Beach railway wreck at Parkville Tuesday evening, died this morning in the New-Edinburgh Hospital, Brooklyn.

Bartholomew was one of the last of the injured to be removed from the scene of the accident. He lost considerable blood before he was found pinned down under one of the derailed cars.

His left leg was cut off just above the knee and his right foot was almost cut off at the ankle. He was badly cut about the face and head.

He was thirty years old and a farmer at Sooley Creek, near Elmira, N. Y.

At the other hospitals in Brooklyn where a number of the injured were taken after the accident it was said this morning that the patients were doing as well as could be expected.

The only person who is not expected to live is Nicholas Foster, who is lying at his home, 20 West Fifty-fifth street, New York, suffering from internal injuries.

The authorities have about come to the conclusion that Quimby, whose body was said to have been taken away from the wreck, was a mythical personage.

Quimby was said to have won $5,000 on the races, and the story went, the men who took him away in a dying condition, abandoned him somewhere along the route and escaped with the money.

Lawyer Towne, of Brooklyn, was said to be a friend of Quimby, but this morning he was said to have known him by any other name.

Justice Gottling, in the Lee Avenue court, Williamsburg, to-day, issued a summons for Catherine Rohrer, of 183 North Fourth street.

MAYOR BOODY AS A WITNESS.

Tells What He Knew About the Contract for the Grand Stand.

Bank Accounts Admitted at the Trial of Alderman McKee.

When the trial of Alderman William McKee was resumed this morning in the Court of Sessions, Brooklyn, Judge Moore announced his decision on the question of allowing the people to introduce testimony showing the condition of the bank accounts of James H. McKee and Patrick McKee.

The judge decided that the testimony should be allowed to go in. "In reference to the question asked last yesterday," said Judge Moore to-day, "I have to say this: I have decided, with grave doubt as to the correctness of the opinion, to admit the testimony for a single purpose. It seems to me to have some bearing on the character of this bill, and to have a tendency to throw light upon it. I have to say at the same time that it is a very material, and of no consequence whatever whether it is introduced or not."

Assistant District Attorney Clarke read a transcript of McKee's account with the Kings County Bank from October, 1882, to May, 1883. It showed that McKee had deposited in the bank various amounts of money. McKee's account showed that on Oct. 28 he deposited $2,300, and on the following day $2,300 more, and on the following day $2,300 more.

Mr. Hazard said he could only estimate the cost of the grand stand after an inspection of the plans and specifications.

"Assuming that you know the cost of the materials and the cost of the labor, what would be a fair profit on a job like this?"

"I should put on about 10 per cent," the witness replied. The cost of the materials and labor is said to be of the order of $10,000.

On cross examination the witness said he had not been in the building business for some time.

District Attorney Ridgway then announced that the testimony for the prosecution was complete.

The Court dismissed the case. The motion was denied.

COOLNESS BETWEEN MEN

Preparing for a Bitter Fight Against the Trust.

"Deacon" Richardson May Take a Hand with the Machine.

The retail ice dealers in Brooklyn are preparing to organize a bitter fight against the Ice Trust, which has already increased the price from $2 to $2.50 a ton, wholesale.

The increase was made by Millionaire Morse, who recently purchased the Higdon Ice Company of Brooklyn.

Mr. Morse further says that in July the price will be increased to $3 a ton, wholesale, and an advance thereafter of 50 cents a month.

This will bring the retail price up to about 50 cents a hundred within the next two months.

Meantime, "Deacon" Richardson is watching the fight with a good deal of interest. He expects to see the Ice Trust in a bad way.

If "Deacon" Richardson makes the move, he will begin by cutting prices, and keep below the schedule of the Ice Trust even at a big loss to his concern.

SHE IS AFTER DR. ZIMMERMAN

He Is Charged with Abandonment and Refusal to Support.

His Pastor Accused of Being Instrumental in the Desertion.

The wife of Dr. Edwin Zimmerman, of 142 Perry street, has secured a warrant from the Jefferson Market Court for the arrest of the doctor on a charge of abandonment.

She claims she was deserted last April, and that, although her husband had a phrase worth $50 a day, and a fortune of over $500,000, he has since then contributed nothing to her support.

Mrs. Zimmerman claims that the trouble with her husband began last Summer when she was in the country with her daughter, a young lady of about twenty-one.

The doctor, she thought, while she was away, and to pass the time visited certain women.

So attached did he become to them, she says, that when she returned he called her madam and otherwise treated her as a stranger.

Dr. Shattuck told an "Evening World" reporter that Dr. Zimmerman had been driven from home by his wife's disagreeable and quarrelsome ways.

He did not believe the doctor had taken undue interest in other women.

Dr. Shattuck intimated that Dr. Zimmerman had gone to a Western State to get a divorce.

Mrs. Zimmerman claims, however, that her husband is in the city and that she saw him on a street car yesterday.

Ninety Per Cent. of Humidity Means the Breeze To-Day.

The relief from the "sizzard" of the past three days that New Yorkers experienced to-day was welcome.

Forecaster Dunn predicted this morning that the temperature that began with 8
